New and Enlarged Store Of John E. Chart Opens Today

Many Bargain Offerings in Three-Day Selling Event—Store One of Most Modern and Attractive in Southern Tier—Business Established By Edwin Chart, Father of Present Owner — In Present Location Forty-five Years.

The new and enlarged grocery store and meat market of John E. Chart, occupying the corner location in the new Chart Block at Main and Steuben streets, Addison, will be formally opened to the public this (Thursday) morning, December 20. Many special offerings, as listed on Mr. Chart's display advertisement on Page 8 of this paper will feature the three-day selling event in celebration of the occasion.

The new store, thoroughly modern in every way, and ranking with the most attractive and progressive food stores in the Southern Tier, has a frontage of sixteen feet, extreme depth of sixty feet. New walls, flooring and shelving have been installed and the entire interior has been newly painted and decorated. With greater window and floor space than heretofore, the opportunity for striking displays is greatly enhanced and the convenience and comfort of every customer is assured.

Store Opens Today

The electrical installation is completely new throughout and the plumbing is also new through most of the building. The meat department will remain in the same section of the store as in the past. Mr. Chart's office, however, will hereafter be located in the north rear corner of the store.

The new Chart Block provides space for two additional stores north of the Chart Market. Each of these have a frontage of sixteen feet. The store directly next to the market will again be occupied by Mrs. Lela Pepper, who conducted a restaurant and confectionery store in the old building.

The Chart store was first established by Edwin Chart, father of John E. Chart, at a point on the north side near the present site of Ernest Shelansky's lunch room. Only meats were carried at that time and for many years thereafter. Later, for a time, the business was located in the old Baldwin block, on the present site of Frank S. Whitmore's hardware store. About forty-five years ago, another change was made, this time to the corner of Steuben street and Tuscarora or Main street, as it is now known.

Edwin Chart, the founder, retired from business about twenty-three years ago and was succeeded by his sons, John E. and Harry Chart. The latter withdrew a year or two later and the business has since been conducted by John E. Chart who added the grocery and food departments about twenty years ago and under whose guidance the business has continued to grow and flourish.

Associated with Mr. Chart in the conduct of the enterprise are Clarence Bullock, Winfred Huggins, Edwin Chart and Mrs. Clare Chart. Mr. Bullock has been in Mr. Chart's employ for fifteen years or more and Mr. Huggins for approximately seven years. Edwin Chart is a son of John E. Chart and a grandson of the original founder.

Did The Killer of Mrs. Parker Use Same Weapon To Strike Down The Van Cise Brothers in 1932?

While county officers are frantically searching for the slayer of Mrs. Lydia Parker, well-to-do Bath widow, laymen are pondering the similarity of this crime to a number which have eluded the solution of county officials the past two or three years. Mrs. Parker was slain in her home on Morris Street early Monday evening, the murder leaving no open clue to his identity or reason for committing the deed.

Like the murderer of Mrs. Winnie Burlingame at Canisteo ten days before, the killer of Mrs. Parker beat his victim to death with a number of blows on the head. Both women evidently died from a repetition of blows, rather than a single terrific knock. In both cases robbery was apparently not the primary motive, money and valuables being left undisturbed in both houses. This leads to the common thought that the killer may be a maniac gripped with a "blood lust" something like Albert Fish who recently confessed to the brutal slaying of the little Budd girl.

It is believed to be within the bounds of possibility the killer of these two women may be the same man who struck down the Van Cise brothers near here two years ago. All three deeds bear a startling similarity. In every case no systematic search was made for money the victims held in large sums. Each killing was probably done early in the evening. While a terrific struggle occurred in the Van Cise cabin and the killer eventually used his gun, signs pointed to the belief he only fired as a last resort. Further, on the head of Frank Van Cise were puncture marks similar to those described on the skull of Mrs. Parker.

Some writer has attributed the lethal instrument as a file, but more sober reflection would indicate the killer used brass knuckles, and the same knuckles may have been used in the Van Cise cabin.

Discovery of a blood encrusted black-jack made of a rubber tube on the river near Mrs. Perkin's home, does not disprove the above theory. Certainly the weighted tube would not have punctured small holes in the widow's skull. The murderer must have used more than one weapon.

Old Paper, Found During Work On Chart Block, Gives Interesting Highlights On News 45 Years Ago

A copy of the Albany, N. Y. Evening Journal of January 16, 1889, was found between the walls of the old Chart building when the structure was being moved and remodeled to make way for the new and improved business block a few weeks ago. Yellowed with age and well frayed along the edges, the paper had nevertheless withstood the toll of the passing years and proves very interesting to people of a later day.

Under the heading "Congress at Work", a Washington dispatch, reads: "The President's two messages in regard to affairs in Samoa and Hayti were referred to the senate committee on foreign affairs. Mr. Cullom presented a memorial of the women's national Christian temperance union of Illinois and other bodies in favor of legislation for Sabbath observance, against the running of interstate trains on Sunday and against military drills on Sunday. These and many similar memorials from many states were referred to the committee on education and labor. A deputation of ladies in the gallery watched the presentation of the memorials. Mr. Riddleberger in presenting one of the memorials said that he opposed such legislation.

That political parties of those days were also beset with factional differences is apparent from the following dispatch from Philadelphia: "A correspondent of the Times had an interview yesterday with Senator Evarts. The senator said, 'We carried New York by means of a united party, and it will only be through the same instrumentality that we will be able to keep the Republican party in its present ascendancy. It would be very unfortunate to lose it by the rivalries of opposing elements."

"Telegrams in Brief" on world affairs, included such as these: "Prince Bismark made nine speeches in the reichstag yesterday". "The public schools of Albert Lea, Minn., were closed yesterday on account of the diphtheria epidemic existing there". "Messengers with electoral votes in sealed envelopes have arrived at Washington from more than half a dozen states". Mr. Cleveland, one of the Nevada electors, became ill at Carson City after casting his vote Monday. The illness was due to the fatigue of a long ride on horseback". "A Mexican mustang attached to a wagon ran away in of relief and public works so enormous it has taken away the breath of most persons. Some praise the program, others bitterly condemn it as extravagant, while many have reserved comment until given greater time to study the details. The program contemplates a six year public works plan; removal of sub-marginal land from cultivation; expansion of subsistence homesteading; federal supervision of natural resources; surveys for power, irrigation and flood control in 17 watersheds; soil erosion control; a permanent committee to coordinate "long time public works planning, land use, water resources, mineral policy and planning."

A flame of indignation has been aroused in the Saar as international troops move in to take charge of the January plebiscite. The U. S. Senate Munitions Committee last week was investigating the DuPont powder profits. During the war the government constucted an 85 million dollar plant known as Old Hickory, which was turned over to the DuPonts to make munitions. The Committee claims this plant netted the DuPonts over two million dollars in a few weeks, but the powder makers claim their profits were cut down by taxes to a few thousands.

Police last week cleared up the six year mystery of the disappearance of little Grace Budd. He showed officers where he had buried the dissected body.

It was believed some 15 million offenses were known by police to have been committed last year.

"THE RED RIDER" IS A REAL WESTERN WITH BUCK JONES

"The Red Rider" Universal's new exciting fifteen chapter serial drama of the old west, was written by a master western writer, W. C. Tuttle. The first exciting episode of this thrilling picture which stars the greatest of all cowboys, Buck Jones, with his educated horse Silver, will be shown at the Avon Theatre Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, December 20, 21, and 22.

Filmed in the mountains and plains of southern California, it has an all-star cast of western players including Grant Withers, Marian Shilling, Walter Miller, Richard Cramer, Margaret LaMarr, Charles French, Edmund Cobb, J. P. McGowan and many other favorites outstanding in western pictures.

The story centers itself around Jones, who is known as the honest, straight-shooting sheriff, who sacrifices both his office and name to save his pal from the noose. In his adventurous battles with a band of ruthless smugglers and cattle rustlers, he manages to protect his friend Slade and win the girl he loves. The thrilling tale is jammed with gun fights and perilous action. Superior horsemanship is shown by the entire cast in thrilling rides which fill each episode with intense excitement. Buck proves himself an exceptional equestrian in every swift moving episode.

Each week will bring to the screen at the Avon Theatre a new chapter of "The Red Rider," directed by Louis Friedlander.

UP TO NOW — An Editorial

Here the Christmas season is very near and this is the first time that we have ventured to put the school news in this column. Perhaps you who read this section wonder why we have been so slow to accept the Advertiser's more than generous offer to print our affairs. We do not know the answer for sure, but we can not help but feel that we have been so busy making news that we have had no time to print it.

Since we are all happy with the thoughts of a vacation we should like to say, "Merry Christmas" to everyone, but especially to the ADVERTISTR because it always tries to make everyone glad.

Treating

I believe treating is quite all right, yet anything can be carried too far. Some people make a habit of treating everybody in sight every time they buy a bar of candy. Because of the influence of these people, whenever a bar of candy or anything of the sort is bought everyone in the store promptly demands to be treated. To ignore such demands is difficult, to say the least; to heed is also difficult and often impossible. What can be done about it? The people will not reform. There are two things therefore which can be done, one is: buy no candy, ice cream, etc.; the other is: depend on your wits or your pocketbook to get you out. I generally prefer the first alternative.

AG BASKET BALL TEAM

Some people — not Mr. Finnerty though — have the idea that the Ag team is playing entirely on last year's reputation. The Aggies have met stronger opposition in the games played thus far than is realized by many. They were defeated recently in two fast games. They lost 16-15 to Savona High School at Savona, and 34-30 to Jasper High School at Jasper, an extra period game. The Aggies, a well balanced team, should go places in the future. Come to the games and believe it for yourself.

A FARM

We have a farm in the third grade. One boy made a barn with a silo. One more boy made a horse barn and Mary brought a horse. There is a pasture which has a fence around it. We made a cinder road across the farm. We also have hen houses and a pig pen.

A.H.S. Knights Thwart Corning Threat

Coach Hewson's Fast Stepping Five Defeated Northside High

Close Game Saturday Evening Ended With Locals on Long End of 21 to 19 Score — Lead Changes Hands Several Times But Addison Boys Held Distinct Edge During Final Quarter—Hargrave Leads Scoring.

The Addison High School basketball team took a close game from Corning Northside Saturday evening by the score of 21 to 19. The large crowd which came to the Addison auditorium expected to see the Knights coast along to an easy victory, but Coach Jacoby of Northside surprised the fans by bringing along a well developed five that kept the game in doubt until the last seconds of play.

The game was a see-saw affair with the Knights holding the upper hand most of the time, yet unable to forge to the lead they looked capable of securing. The locals were successful in working the ball thru the visitors' defense, but nearly every man on the team seemed to be badly bothered finding the hoop, shot after shot going amiss. The visitors, on the other hand, had control of the ball a smaller percentage of the time and were able to consistently penetrate the Addison defense. But they were extremely lucky on long shots which were the main factor in keeping them in the game.

Hargrave was the scoring star for Addison, accounting for 8 points with two field baskets and four single pointers out of six throws from the gratis line. He controlled the tip-off in center most of the evening. Wilson had 7 points to his credit, Robbins 4 and Hickey 2.

The locals started off as if they could win in easy fashion. Keeping control of the ball they worked carefully with pass-work until the opposition defense opened and Hargrave slipped in under the basket for the first two points. A couple of minutes later Wilson found a hole on the left side of the court and broke through to score again. Adriance then was fouled by Flynn and made the throw good, repeating a moment later with another point in the same way. Wilson was fouled and scored. Then Jones looped a long steve into the basket, and Carlineo put Corning into the lead with a similar shot. Hargrave tied the score at 6-all with his first attempt from the free throw line. Carlineo heaved another long one which counted two points and Hickey and Robbins missed free throws as the quarter ended with Northside leading 8 to 6.

The next period was all Addison's, the Knights scoring 7 points while holding their visitors scoreless. After Shaddock missed a foul throw Robbins sneaked through Northside's defense for a nice play under the basket which netted two points and tied the score. Hickey then tossed in a long one and Hargrave was fouled by Adriance, converting the point. Adriance missed a free-throw. Robbins made a nice play in front of the basket, tossing the sphere through cleanly for two points more.

The third period found Northside putting on a desperate rally which tied the score from the wings. riance scored twice from near center at the beginning of the quarter, Hargrave was fouled and once more converted the point. Jones then tied the score from the wnigs. Corning forged ahead with another long shot by Adriance. But Wilson tied it with a well aimed shot from the side, leaving the score 16-all.

The Knights started the last period determined to bag this game at any cost and Wilson tossed a beautiful shot to put the Addison boys in the lead, from which they were not headed afterwards. Adriance converted a free-throw, but Hargrave came right back with a double-decker in front of the basket. Jones counted on another long shot, making it 20 to 19. Both teams were playing hard and Hargrave was fouled three times in succession. He missed the first two attempts, but registered the third throw in the last few seconds, the final whistle sounding as he made the throw.

Many fans were surprised that the green Northside five came so near to tying the Knights in this game. Two things had a great bearing on the final score. The first contributing factor in the Tigers' apparently fine showing against a strong Addison five was the great luck the visitors had on long shots, only one or two baskets being made in ordinary scoring territory. The second factor was the low score turned in by Maurice Robbins, the Addison sparkplug. In the first half Robbins was knocked down by a thrown basketball which struck him in the face. Only as game a player as Robbins would have continued in the game. He was groggy through most of the remaining minutes of play, hence did not score the points he almost certainly would have registered if he had not been playing while in distress.

A feature of the game was the stellar foul shooting of Hargrave, who was fouled six times and made four of the shots good.

Lyres Lift Scalps Off Indians Head

Burt's Lyres put a third nick in their guns at the expense of the Indians 32 to 18. The musicians were never in danger, although the half ended 14 to 16. The Indians led by Hadlock with 9 points, worked hard to keep in sight of the easy going Lyres. Hopper was the main stay of the musicians with 8 points. Brewster came through with his usual 6 points. Other Lyres handing in points were Aldrich, Allen and Hannahs contributing 4 points apiece. Lindsley added 5 points to the Indian score.

Northside Girls Take Close Game From Addison Sextet

The Addison girls bowed to Corning Northside girls Saturday evening 19 to 14 after playing the bigger school to a stand-still much of the route. Coach Harbeck's proteges assumed a 5 to 4 lead at the close of the first quarter and the game proved a nip and tuck affair most of the way, Northside leading at the half time period and forging several points ahead in the third.

Addison started a brilliant rally in the last quarter with baskets by Chart and Perkins, coming within three points of tying. But Lindstrom crashed through with her seventh basket and killed the local offensive, the game ending with five points difference in the two sextets.

Perkins, Chart and Space divided the Addison points with 5, 5 and 4 each, respectively. Corning's offense was all Lindstrom, she making 14 points.

Tomorrow, Friday, members of the Rebekah Lodge and their families will hold a Christmas party Mrs. Julia Smith is chairman of the committee in charge. On the 27th of this month, members of the Addison lodge are invited to attend the meeting at Painted Post at which Clara B. Ingalls, district deputy assembly president, will be present. On the 10th of January, a children's party will be held by the local lodge. Mrs. Clarence Bullock will be in charge.

Horseheads Five Here Friday Eve.

The Addison Knights will play their last regular game of the calendar year Friday against Horseheads High on the local court. Then the boys will draw several days of well deserved rest during the holiday vacation, broken only by an exhibition game with the alumni, sometime between Christman and New Years.

Not much is known about the strength of Horseheads, except the school has several veteran players back this season. The team has won all three games played this season, but competition has not been too stiff in two of the games. But undoubtedly Horseheads will bring a team determined to win and keep its record clean. The game should be a fairly fast affair, and give the fans the forth for the money.

Addison has now won four games and tied a fifth. This is about the best early season record an Addison team has achieved in the last ten years.

College Group Gives Program At High School

Representatives of Elmira College gave a very interesting program for the pupils of Addison High School Friday afternoon. A reading, "A Christmas Present for a Lady" by Miss Helen McCausland furnished much amusement. Miss Marjorie McCausland with her sister as piano accompanist sang "In the Luxemburg Gardens", "Without a Song" and "Losted". Following the musical program Miss Quinlan, an instructor at the institution, talked on the advantages of Elmira College.

Another feature of the program was the one-act play entitled, "Lima Bean" by Alfred Kreymborg, with Miss Helen McCausland as the wife and Miss Able as the husband.

Jasper Splits With Campbell

Girls Lose, 20-5, But Boys Come Through 30-21—Coach Confident of Victory in Remaining Frays.

Supported by a large crowd of howling fans, Jasper High School invaded Campbell Friday night and divided a twin bil with that school. The Jasper girls ran up against stiff opposition and went down to defeat, 20-5. The local girls were unable to score a single goal and made all their points on foul shots. The Campbell team got off to an early start and led without difficulty all the way.

The boys' game, however, was a much closer and therefore a much more exciting game. Campbell had been picked as a potential winner of the County Class "C" League and were rated one of the best scoring outfits that the local boys would run up against. However Jasper got off to a flying start and led the opposition all the way. Waight and L. Schenck led the Jasper basketeers with three goals apiece and Goodrich was high for Campbell with three.

The Maroon team played excellent offensive basketball throughout the game and had the ball in their possession most of the time. The second string took over the duties for a time and managed to hold their own with Campbell. Campbell put all of their reserves into the fray but were unable to stop the onslaught of the Maroon team.

With his team in mid-season form at this early date, Coach Beacom predicts that the remainder of the games on the interscholastic schedule should be easy. Inasmuch as the local team has beaten their strongest opponents, Savona last week 25-22, and Campbell this week, 30-21, they should have no difficulty in overcoming Bradford and Arkport, which teams are rated far below Campbell.

Tanners Edge Out Cardinals

Elkland Tossers Top Art Gee's Courtsters, 25-22, in Contest Described as "Greatest Game Ever Played in Woodhull"—Aggies Tonight, Jasper Next Week.

The Woodhull Cardinals bowed to the Elkland Tanners in the opening game of the season on the Woodhull High School gymnasium court last Thursday evening by the close score of 25 to 22. The halfway mark found the two teams in a hectic battle with the score tied at 13 all. In the final stanza, however, the Tanners gained the upper hand and emerged on the winning end.

Art Gee, Woodhull mentor, sent Bernard Hallett and Bob Drake to the forward berths, Woodward to center and Hotaling and Dingwell to the defensive posts for the opening whistle. Cady and Preston later broke into the fray in relief capacities. Hallett and Dingwell were the scoring stars for the Cardinals, while Hartley and the rangy Elkland center rang up the most pointers for the visitors. The game was very exciting throughout as the lead see-sawed at all stages. Several old-time fans labeled it the best basketball contest ever played in Woodhull.

The Cardinals are booked for a hard and difficult schedule from this point on. Tonight, Thursday, December 20 they will lock horns with the Addison Shells. Next Thursday, they will clash with the Jasper Blue Birds. Other worthy foes to be faced in rapid succession include the Canaseraga Kings, the Addison Aggies, the Almond town team and one of the highly-rated Elmira fives.

Canisteo Academy Makes Knights Hustle To Win 20 to 15 Monday

The Addison High School continued its onward march of basketball victories Monday, when the Canisteo Academy was defeated on its own court 20 to 15. But in winning the Knights did not add particularly to their record, Canisteo putting up stubborn resistance and holding the score even much of the time.

The Canisteo five showed unexpected strength on its own court, trotting out a tricky offense that penetrated the Knights' defense for three cripples in the first quarter. Meanwhile the Addison five only made three points on a basket and a foul. Gillespie was then sent into the game and Wilson and Hargrave came out in turn, to watch the way their opponents were getting through to score. On the return of the pair Canisteo was effectively bottled up. But just to make the "off night" complete the Addison boys displayed their poorest brand of basketball for the season in the last half. The Knights missed cripple after cripple at the beginning of the last quarter and soon found themselves on the short end of a 15 to 13 score with only five minutes left to play.

Coach Hewson's tossers then called time out to review the situation, and on returning play quickly recovered themselves. Hargrave, Wilson and Robbins each proceeded to shoot a cripple and Flynn converted a foul shot to register seven points, and clinch the game. Meanwhile, Canisteo was held scoreless. While the game had smudged the Addison reputation somewhat, the Knights had not lost their winning record. It is expected they will recover from this slump to play the knd of basketball they are capable of showing through the remainder of the season.

New York yesterday, knocking down four persons and was so badly injured himself that he had to be shot".

Farmers had their marketing associations even that far back. Another dispatch reads: "The national wool growers' association met at Washington Thursday. Thirteen states and territories were represented, also various sheep and wool growing associations. The committee on resolutions made a report demanding that the duties on wool and woolen worsted goods be adjusted so as to secure to wool growers and manufacturers the American markets and declaring that the wool industry will continue to decline unless better provision for its maintenance is provided. A committee was appointed to draw up a schedule of duties for wool and present it to the senate finance committee."

The price of eggs was listed as: Nearby and newly laid 25c and 27c; butter 25c a pound; retail prices for butter were: fancy 30c, fair to good 20c to 25c. Maple syrup sold for 75c to $1 a gallon.

A sensation of the day rated no more than the customary eight-point headlines in use throughout the paper. It read, "William LaGrange, a druggist, and Nellie E. Truax, a widow of Guilderland Center who a few days ago made a novel contact with the man to become a druggist, as published in the Journal, is now missing and it is presumed that she has eloped. She made frequent calls on the druggist of late, much to the indignation of his wife who was furiously jealous of the woman. On one occasion Nellie made a call when Mrs. LaGrange was in the store. A quarrel ensued, which terminated in the blooming widow's expulsion from the store. Of course Nellie determined to make matters extremely interesting for the wife. She intends to master the profession and not forfeit her contract."

Bureau Meeting Largely Attended

Members from practically every township of the county attended the seventeenth annual meeting of the Steuben County Farm Bureau at Bath Staurday which marked the closing of the most successful year in its history.

Lee Edmond. Cohocton, Aaron Putnam of Wheeler were re-elected to serve as directors and Leonard Drake of Prattsburg and Leo Gorges of Lindley were chosen as new members of the board. A. E. Scudder of Painted Post reported on the annual meeting of the New York State Farm Bureau Federation to which he was a delegate.

Barnes Praises Program

In his address President Barnes cited the extensive service performed by the bureau in the current year. "The attendance at the 80 odd meetings was 12,000. The number of cows on test in our dairy record services increased 60 percent over the previous year. We have continued to promote the sale of dairy cattle with unusual success and every phase of our program has been carried on with a high degree of efficiency. Much attention has been given," he said, "to emergency work, such as debt adjustment and the difficult potato marketing situation." High praise was accorded the committeemen by Mr. Barnes, for the successful membership canvass.

League Discusses Milk

The principal address of the meeting was delivered by Frank H. Sexauer, president of the Dairymen's League. "The milk market problem must be solved by dairy farmers," Mr. Sexauer stated and he urged the study and investigation of farm leaders not affiliated with any milk marketing group in order that a program may be decided upon in which all can cooperate.

"Because of the complexity of the milk business," Mr. Sexauer stated, "this problem can not be solved by the milk control board or any other legislative body and this fact is freely admitted by the milk control board itself." Specific examples were cited by Mr. Sexauer as proof of this statement. For instance, the matter of interstate shipment, the many classifications of milk and the vast number of distributors.

A feature of the meeting was a musical program arranged by Willis Oldfield, musical director at Haverling. Rev. H. L. Somers of Canisteo was elected as president of the farm and home bureau association.

Sunbury Man Fined Tuesday For Violation of Market Laws

Weight Slips of Coal Delivery Altered, Which is a Misdemeanor Under Existing Statutes --- Justice Colbert At Hearing, Says Local Dealers Must Be Protected From Activities of Coal Bootleggers.

Harry Umholtz of Sunbury, Pa., who was arrested by Police Chief Elmer C. Bovee Tuesday afternoon for violation of the Agricultural Market laws of New York State, pleaded guilty at a hearing the same afternoon before Justice Daniel J. Colbert and paid a fine of $21.

Umholtz left Sunbury Monday at midnight with four tons of coal consigned to two purchasers at Campbell. He stopped enroute at Painted Post where the load was weighed and weight slips made out in the names of the Campbell residents to whom it was expected that the coal would be delivered.

Upon reaching Campbell, however, Umholtz found that the parties to whom the coal had been consigned were financially unable to carry out their part of the transaction. He thereupon drove successively to Bath, Hornell, Canisteo, and Woodhull looking for a purchases, but without success.

Coming on to Addison he found two local residents who accepted his offer, each buyer taking two tons at $10.50 a ton. Police Chief Bovee had observed his truck coming into town, however, and shortly after the sale had been completed, the chief appeared with a request that he be shown the vender's weight slip. Upon observing that the slips had been altered and that the names of the local purchasers had been substituted for the names of the original consignees, as inserted by the weighmaster at Painted Post, Umholtz was immediately placed under arrest. The specific charge entered against him, that of violating the agricultural and market laws by altering a weight slip after it had been made out by a properly accredited official, is a misdemeanor under the laws of the state. Such action also renders the weight slip void.

During the hearing Justice Colbert emphasized that local dealers must be protected against the activities of itinerant venders and bootleggers and that it would be necessary for him to exact a penalty sufficiently severe to discourage such activities in the future. The fine of $21.00 which he then imposed represented half the amount realized by Umholtz from the sale of the coal.

Inquiry at a local coal yard, where weights were checked after the first two tons had been delivered, reveals the total weight of the truck and the remaining quantity of coal to be 9200 pounds. The weight of the truck only was 5425, leaving a net of 3775 pounds of coal or 225 pounds less than two tons. It is alleged that representations were made to the local purchaser that the coal netted over 4100 pounds.

CHRISTMAS

The approach of this Christmas season should put Americans into a frame of mind of thoughtfulness approaching sanctity. In our national anxiety to end the depression, we have successively tried every known road and possible trail which might lead out of the morass, except one.

After the stock debacle in 1929, big traders stepped into the market during 1931 confidently believing they could bring back prosperity by manipulating the market. But they failed, just as one after another agency since that day has also failed. The mighty banks of the country found they were insufficient to stem the tide of waning business. Then the present Administration took the helm with promises of a New Deal which would lead us out. Into the New Deal picture marched learned professors from the greatest universities in the land, great men of economics and science who were ready to solve the nation's problems with liberal applications of class-room theory. They failed, and though they retained places on the stage they were augmented by social leaders, taking a large group of followers up another dubious highway of socialized expenditure. This failure was paralleled by such streams of efforts as NRA and AAA, with their various formulas. Labor was given its chance to show the way out, through short hours; big industry was afforded a glistening pavement of price-fixing, and the politicians were given enormous sums to spend in prodigal manner, all in the hopes of ending the depression. Yet today we are told that more people must be placed on relief rolls during the present winter, than ever before.

What is the answer? It is plainly written. "Man cannot live by bread alone." With all our attempts to end the depression we neglected the one course which could lead us straight out. Nominally a Christian nation, we have nationally forgotten God. Knowing the formula for all human betterment, is amply described with understandable language in the most widely circulated Book on earth, we have turned our backs to pursue man-made theories and scientific prescriptions not tested in the laboratory of souls.

The fact has been pointed out before, yet our national ears have been deaf to it. Men like Babson have maintained this country needed a religious awakening to lead us out of this depression. Just as the poet said, "the gift without the giver is bare . . ." so have our tax gifts to fellow-men been in too many cases "bare". They have served to convey the thought to many, that the "world owed them a living". Rather does every person in the world owe it to each other to keep the spirit of the Golden Rule. And even the Golden Rule is spoken of so loosely now-a-days, it is probable half the people in this country do not know to Whom we are indebted for the Golden Rule.

It has been too easy to forget during the great period of prosperity, that every human social advance has been made in lands where the Word of God was accepted. Yet it is true. And it is just as true the application of Christ's principles could quickly lead us out of this blackness.

Christian people could lead the way during this Christmas season, if they would send with every good gift the heart-felt message, "In Christ's Name, I offer this." Then, indeed, would the giver feel, "It is more blessed to give than receive."

We formally recognize Christ's birth by celebration of Christmas, yet give too little or no thought to the One Who willingly made the greatest sacrifice on earth for us. There could be no selfishness in that great gift. The true Christmas spirit is a spirit of unselfishness. Let us approach it in that spirit, and become a Christian nation in truth as well as name.

RUSSIAN MURDERS

Anyone who read of the merciless slaying of hundreds of Russians, last week by dictate of their oppressors, without semblance of a trial, must have been impressed with the ruthless character of some of the European governments. Claiming to be a pure Socialistic state, the Red regime is in truth a Terrorist form of government. The people are actually controlled by fear, instead of by orderly formulated laws which give a degree of justice and freedom, even in monarchies.

A terrorist form of government is only possible where the iron-fisted rulers keep absolute control of the press, thus preventing the general public knowing many of the injustices perpetrated. Every nation of the world today that has limited the freedom of the press, has curtailed or stripped the people of their liberties. A country, no matter how Democratic, which begins to exercise control over public thought by a government controlled press, has turned its back upon the principle of freedom and is well on the road towards a return to serfdom.

MILK PRICE SENSE

Too many of the patent formulas by which we have to live today are working out with little appreciation of the old truth, "circumstances alter cases". Class-room theories are laid down for a great cross-section of people with little or no regard for differences of environment, or living conditions.

Take the New York milk law, for instance. Now every open-minded person in the state should be fully in sympathy with plans to give the farmer greater returns for his milk, but the trouble is, certain provisions of the milk law tend to defeat the very purpose for which is was created. Particularly this is true of the graduation of the price-fixing portion. There is only a slight difference between the price consumers pay in the metropolitan centers, and a price they must pay in a village the size of Addison. When one takes into account the difference in cost of delivering a quart of milk from the farm to the New York City consumer, versus farm to Addison consumer, anyone with the slightest arithmetical ability can see the Milk Board members have greatly erred in their figures.

Milk going to communities from 1,000 to 20,000 inhabitants ordinarily travels directly from the dairy to the consumers' doors, without any intermediate stop at a central distributing plant. Milk going to New York must be hauled from the farm to the shipping station, cooled and placed on the cars, shipped some 250 miles by rail, unloaded in the city and usually pasteurized before it is bottled by expensive labor in plants where rents are high and then delivered farther to the consumer than the country milk man travels going from his farm to the village route. There are any number of cost factors which enter into the city consumers' bottle of milk that do not have to be considered in the villagers' bottle. Yet only a narrow margin separates the price the two must pay.

Doubtless the village milk man will tell you he is not making any money. Press him for the reason and you will probably learn, if he discusses the problem honestly, that the reason he is not making money is because his customers are too limited. If he delivers twice as many bottles of milk his selling cost would be reduced fully one-third. Yet as long as he holds up the retail price of milk, backed by the Board, of course, his customers will refuse to buy more whole milk.

The reason he sells less milk is the fact his customers can supply themselves with a substitute at less cost. Every grocery store is selling oodles of evaporated milk in all our villages and small cities, thus cutting largely into the consumption of fluid milk in this region. This milk, canned in Wisconsin and other states where the price is even lower than New York, is shipped into this state where the Milk Board says fluid milk shall not be sold below a certain specified price. It comes in direct competition with New York milk, with no minimum price limit, and unquestionably the local milk it replaces in homes through the villages and cities of New York, would wholly solve the surplus problem of the state. It creates a situation which would be laughable, if it were not tragic for the New York farmer. Yet what can the Milk Board do about this form of competition?

One thing it could do would be to even things up in the rural communities. People whose earnings are less than those residing in the metropolitan centers, should be able to buy their milk at prices nearer the production cost. Any number of farmers living near villages, farmers whose dairies and surroundings would stand rigid inspection, would be glad to sell milk in two to five quart lots at five to seven cents a quart. Let the rural folks have their milk at a price they can afford to pay in these times, and they'll consume more of it. They will buy more fluid milk and less canned milk.

The way to meet this competition from Wisconsin milk is by means of applying the principles of common sense. The Milk Board's prices set in the metropolitan districts are certainly fair enough. The prices set for small cities and villages up-state are not in line with costs of handling, and have driven much of this market to Wisconsin.

NAVY RACES

Americans as a whole should have felt glad to hear of the direct rejoinder Norman Davis made to the demands of Japan, dickering as she has been for months to get a navy as big as the U. S. Naval races, as such, between nations of nearly the same resources, like Great Britain and the U. S. are a foolish waste of money. The case of Japan is different. The Japs have been enjoying an increasingly swelled head ever since the Russo-Jap War. They are fearless fighters, and once armed with a navy as big as this country's, the military element of the Island Empire would itch to try it out on big game.

Japan knows she has not the resources to match ship with ship in a race against the U. S. Norman Davis chartered a smart course by calling the Japs' bluff, and letting them know we would not permit equality of navies. Japan is so much nearer bankruptcy than the U. S., wise heads in Nippon will prevent any naval race.

Statewide Interest Seen in Reorganization of Republicans

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 17—Republicans throughout the state are expressing deep interest in the reorganization of the party under the leadership of Chairman Melvin C. Eaton. Not much has been said about the reorganization policy of the recently elected chairman. It is now coming out, however. The idea back of it all, says Chairman Eaton, has been to get the expression of feeling, not of a few leaders at Albany, but of all those most concerned, namely the county leaders, the individual members of the State Committee, and the Republican voters themselves.

Letters from all over the state, received at Republican State Headquarters since the Utica conference, reveal that the new policy is meeting with great favor. One county chairman says, "It is the first time in my political history that my opinion has been asked concerning matters affecting the voters in my county". Another county chairman writes: "Thanks for your new policy of getting at the facts in the home districts . . . It will help materially in our work of building up the party strength."

The purpose of the Utica conference, according to the Chairman, was to discuss the leadership in the coming legislative session. There is no question but the majority favored the idea of a younger, liberal leadership. That was the sentiment expressed before the meeting and no doubt will be heeded when a leader is chosen for the Assembly in January, at the opening of the session.

Prominently mentioned for the position of Republican leader in the Assembly, Joseph A. McGinnies, has expressed his willingness to do all in his power, whatever the outcome of the Republican caucus at Albany.

With a younger, progressive man in the role of leader, ably supported, as he would be, by the experience and legislative wisdom of a man like "Joe" we would have an ideal situation at Albany.

Chairman Eaton himself paid a high tribute to the service long rendered by Speaker McGinnies. "There is no doubt", he said, "that he is perfectly familiar with all previous legislation, and furthermore, Joe is the best parliamentarian in the Assembly today. His advice, on matters of legislation, would be of invaluable benefit to the party and to the Senate."

"New York State is being closely watched by Republicans throughout the country", declared Chairman Eaton on a recent visit to Republican State Headquarters. "If we can succeed in meeting the ideals of Republicans in the Empire State, other sections of the country stand ready to follow suit. Out of our experience, then, it is to be hoped, a new Republican party may be born —one in which the people will find their own sentiments voiced in both candidates and platforms."

NEW AND ENLARGED STORE OF JOHN E. CHART WILL OPEN TO-DAY

The newly-completed Chart Block, Addison's latest business improvement, is pictured above. The meat and food store of John E. Chart, occupying the corner location, will be formally opened to the public this Thursday, December 20th.

Well over half a century ago, a retail meat market was established in Addison by Edwin Chart, father of John E. Chart.

Honest quality, fair dealing, a policy of satisfaction to every customer, were the foundation stones upon which this business was conceived and instituted.

"Nature's mighty law is change", says Burns. During the intervening years the location of the Chart store has changed, ownership has passed from father to son, new departments have been added and, in recent weeks, the venerable walls which housed the enterprise for more than forty years have yielded to the needs of a newer and later day. But the solid foundation of honesty, fairness, courtesy and satisfaction, remain unchanged.

Today, John E. Chart, son of the founder, is proprietor and manager of the business. Progressive, alert, Mr. Chart has been quick to sense the possibilities which the future holds. He believes, sincerely, in his business, in his friends, in his community. A newer and more modern store, larger and more commodious quarters, greater convenience, greater service, is his answer to the challenge of the times.

Today, Thursday, December 20th, a new and enlarged store, ranking with the very best to be found in a community of this size, will be formally opened to the people of Addison and vicinity. Old friends and new—all are invited by Mr. Chart in his display advertisement on Page 8 of this issue to visit the store and see for themselves the many changes and improvements which have been effected. A special three-day merchandising event, with many bargain offerings, will feature the formal opening. The event will start this morning and continue to the end of the week.

A greater Addison is the vision which fires the renewed determination of our people to move ahead. Where there is progress, someone must lead the way. John E. Chart steps forth in turn to steer the course toward a bigger and better community. Bon Voyage is the wish of his legion of friends.

CHURCH ANNOUNCEMENTS

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Rev. J. V. Axtell, Pastor

The fourth of the series of Advent sermons will be given at the time of the morning worship. Special Christmas music will be rendered by the united choirs.

The Church School meets at 11:45.

The Christmas exercises in charge of the Church School will be held on next Sunday afternoon at five o'clock. At this time the members of the congregation are privileged in bringing food stuff, clothing, toys for distribution to the poor.

The union service will be conducted from the Methodist Episcopal Church at 7:30.

The annual supper and festival in honor of our young folks home for the holidays will be held on Thursday evening, December 27. Supper will be served at 6:30 and an informal program will be given. All members of our congregation are invited.

The choirs meet on Saturday evening for final rehearsal of Christmas music.

ADDISON METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH
Rev. Ralph Webb, Pastor

"God Bless Us Everyone". These words of Tiny Tim express the sentiment in the mind of the pastor for the citizens of Addison. We feel sure God's blessing will attend your ways this Christmas Sunday, morning and evening in the Methodist Church. Here a welcome is extended to everyone. In the morning at 10:30 you are invited to join with us in worship. "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" will be the theme in song, Scripture and sermon. An augmented choir under the direction of Mrs. Harold Wilson will sing the glorious Christmas carols. Miss Betty Pepper, organist.

In the evening at 7:15 the church bell will ring and carols by the united choirs of Baptist, Presbyterian and Methodist churches will be the signal for the people of Addison to take part in a fine community carol service in the Methodist church. Beginning at 7:30 a Christmas service, with illustrated songs and that wonderful story by Henry Van Dyke—"The Other Wise Man", will be shown on the screen. A happy and joyous time is assured all who attend this union evening service. Come, let us adore Him this Christmas.

The Epworth League Dramatic Club, under the direction of Charles Johnson, invites the public to its first production next Thursday evening, Dec. 27, at 8:00 P. M. at the Methodist Church. Work on this play has been going on steadily for three weeks and "A Japanese Madonna" promises to be both inspiring and interesting. Do not miss this seasonable pageant produced by Addison youth. A real Christmas treat awaits you.

Epworth League Sunday at 6:30 P. M.

Wednesday at 7:30, prayer service.

ORR HILL METHODIST CHURCH
Rev. Ralph Webb, Pastor

This Sunday at 2 P. M. Christmas Service for young and old.

Friends of the church are asked to attend this Sunday to vote for the continuance of the services on the Hill or come to a decision for the definite closing of the same.

Twenty-five persons present declaring their wish and also their vows to stand by the church may decide the future of the work. The Methodist Church is willing to move out of territory already well churched; and is willing to cooperate rather than to compete in this work of enlarging the frontiers of Christianity. Your absence next Sunday will be your vote.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
Rev. Kenneth E. Arnold, Pastor

We invite you to attend our Christmas service which will be held Sunday morning beginning at 10:30 o'clock. The message will be presented through the medium of music, both vocal and instrumental. For the children there will be an illustrated Christmas story.

Remember that our church school meets at 11:45. B. Y. P. U. convenes at 6:30. The union service will be held in the Methodist Episcopal Church beginning at 7:30. Read carefully the Methodist Church notes for information concerning it.

Wednesday night is prayer meeting night. Come at 7:30.

Don't forget the rehearsal of the choir on Saturday night.

The meeting of the Men's Class which was to have been held December 13 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Ford of Erwins has been postponed to December 27th. Instead of being a Christmas party it will be a New Year's party.
